PREFACE

The Australian National Classification of Offences (ANCO) has been developed by the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) from a draft classification circulated in June 1980 - the Draft Australian National Classification of Offences (DANCO) for use in the preparation of statistics by crime and justice agencies in all States and Territories. The ABS is hopeful that the ANCO will be used by all agencies in due course for the preparation of reports, and the publication of statistics generally.

The use of the DANCO by various agencies, particularly for the preparation of courts statistics and the advice of those agencies has greatly assisted ABS in the preparation of this classification, and the co-operation of those agencies and others is appreciated.

The classification will be maintained by ABS and revised periodically. Any suggestions for additions to the offence code lists, explanatory notes to the division, subdivision and group notes etc. would be appreciated.

Regular users are invited to register with the Health, Education and Other Social Section of ABS by writing to the Director, Health, Education and Other Social, Australian Bureau of Statistics, PO Box 10 Belconnen ACT 2616, to ensure that any interim revisions to the classification are notified to them.

Any enquiries regarding the classification may be made by writing to the above address, or by telephoning the Section in Canberra on (062) 526560.

AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCES
(1985 VERSION)

INTRODUCTORY NOTES

The Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) has developed the national classification of offences from a draft classification circulated in June 1980 - the Draft Australian National Classification of Offences (DANCO). The use of DANCO by various agencies, particularly in the preparation of courts statistics, has assisted in its revision to the stage where this classification can now be released. The cooperation of those agencies and others who have contributed by their advice to this revision is appreciated.

2 The classification is presented in four sections:

- . Introductory Notes;
- . Summary of division, sub-division and group titles with comparison with DANCO.
- . Classified list of offences with relevant explanatory notes;
- . Index of offences.

3 The purpose of the Australian National Classification of Offences (ANCO) is to provide a framework for classifying offences for statistical purposes which is able to be applied at various levels of detail by police, courts, legal aid, corrections and other agencies involved in crime and justice.

4 Some items in the classification, particularly at the group level, will not apply to all agencies. For example, the details of type of building for offences of break and enter will be available for police statistics but most likely will not be available for statistics in respect of courts, corrections and other agencies.

Structure and principles of the Classification

5 The Classification comprises 8 Divisions for offences divided into Subdivisions and Groups, plus a Division for Child Welfare Matters containing only one Group (911) for use only in court statistics. There is separate child welfare classification (WELSTAT) for use in other areas.

6 The following basic principles apply:

- (i) Subdivisions are national items applicable to all States and Territories.
- (ii) Groups are also national items where possible. Groups which are not applicable for legislative or other reasons to all States and Territories are noted appropriately. (The letter S prefixing a group code number (eg S GROUP 193) in the Classification indicates that the group is not necessarily applicable to or details are not available in all States and Territories.) This applies particularly to Division 5 and Division 8.

7 The main factors taken into consideration in developing the classification were:

- . the need to provide a classification useable in different areas of crime and justice.
- . differing legislation in individual States and Territories and Federal Legislation.

- . the homogeneity of groupings in terms of the nature of constituent offences.
- . the need to separately identify offences of particular interest.
- . the incidence of particular offences.
- . the structure of the DANCO in which consideration was given to classifications used in Australia and overseas and other elements such as the U.N. Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs.

8 No attempt was made to structure the Classification in order of seriousness of offences and while the order adopted may appear at first glance to reflect seriousness this should not be assumed.

9 Particular factors are relevant to both the structure and application of ANCO and these are notified in the Explanatory Notes to divisions, subdivisions and groups.

ANCO Numbering convention

10 The ANCO uses a divisional, subdivisional and group breakdown with a 3-digit numbering system at the group level.

11 It is not envisaged that the requirements for national data will require extension beyond the 3-digit level.

12 State and Federal agencies are free to utilise additional digits in classifying offences for their own purposes. This will not impair national comparability at the 3-digit level.

13 An important example which illustrates the use of the additional digit(s) is in Subdivision 13 - Sexual assaults and offences. The variations in law from State to State have necessitated a broad grouping of offences in this subdivision. The use of additional digits will enable State agencies to identify offences of particular significance to the States in question. For example the offences of rape, incest and carnal knowledge could be given fourth digit codes which would enable them to be identified separately from other offences in Groups 136 and 137. A fifth digit code could be utilised for other elements such as age and sex of persons involved, etc.

Compatibility between ANCO (1985) and DANCO (1980)

14 The ANCO and DANCO are compatible.

15 All DANCO divisions have been retained in ANCO

16 Several subdivisions in DANCO have been further subdivided into subdivisions in ANCO to reflect legislative distinctions, statistical significance (based on experience in using DANCO for courts statistics) and/or social importance (drink driving, drugs, etc).

Application of the Classification

17 An INDEX OF OFFENCES is provided to assist classifying, etc
In using this Index care must be taken to READ AND APPLY THE RELEVANT

DIVISION, SUBDIVISION AND GROUP NOTES, particularly when a code in the Index carries the suffix #, eg 836#.

18 Offences are defined in legislation and in documents of the relevant agency and therefore no attempt is made in this classification to define the elements or circumstances which constitute an offence. In all cases THE OFFENCE AS DESCRIBED IN SOURCE DOCUMENTS IS THE OFFENCE TO BE CLASSIFIED. Classifiers/coders should not look beyond the offence as described to elements of motive, etc, in allocating an offence group code for statistical purposes.

19 Generally the nature of the offence prevails without regard to characteristics of offender, victim, property, etc - exceptions such as theft of motor vehicles are clearly noted and explained throughout the classification under the relevant division, subdivision and group.

20 The following rule applies to all offences except murder for which offence specific groups are included for attempted murder and conspiracy to murder. The rule is repeated as a explanatory note to each subdivision.

Attempts, aid and abet, conspiracy to, or accessory before the fact to an offence are classified to the relevant offence group.

21 An offence specified as "accessory after the fact" to any offence is classified to Division 5 as an offence against good order.

22. There may be cases where the same offence could justifiably be classified to different divisions of the classification. Which division is chosen would depend upon the Act under which the offence is charged. For example the lighting of a fire on the roadside during a total fire ban would be classified to Division 8, Group 849 - Fires, bushfire control if the offence was charged under specific fire control legislation; but classified to Division 4, Group 411 - Arson if the offence was charged under legislation not specific to fires, such as the Crimes Act, Police Offences Act, etc. As stated in paragraph 17 above the notes should be referred to when the offence code carries the suffix #.

Review of ANCO

23 Suggestions for additions to the offence code list, the establishment of additional subdivisions or groups and new or revised definitions will be gratefully accepted by the ABS either through the Deputy Commonwealth Statistician in each State or to the address shown below. The classification will be revised periodically but only with the general agreement of the main users. Should you wish to receive interim updates, please contact the ABS at the address shown below so that your name can be added to a register of users.

Subdivision 12 is subdivided into three groups:

- 121. Assault occasioning grievous bodily harm
- 122. Assault occasioning actual bodily harm
- 129. Other assault

Because of the widely varying definitions and practice as to what constitutes grievous bodily harm in particular, the classifications for these groups are strictly defined and should be strictly interpreted.

ONLY where the words "GRIEVOUS" or "PERMANENT INJURY" or "TO ENDANGER LIFE" appear in an offence description relating to assault is the offence to be classified to Group 121 - Assault occasioning grievous bodily harm. All other terms, such as serious, are to be considered as warranting classification of the offence to Group 122 - Assault occasioning actual bodily harm.

GROUP 121 ASSAULT OCCASIONING GRIEVOUS BODILY HARM

NOTE: See first the Explanatory notes to this Subdivision

An offence of assault is to be classified to this Group only if the offence is described as an assault being "GRIEVOUS" or the words "PERMANENT INJURY" or "TO ENDANGER LIFE" appear in the offence description of the assault.

For the purpose of classifying offences to this group an offence described as "SERIOUS" assault without the qualifying words "GRIEVOUS" or "PERMANENT INJURY" or "TO ENDANGER LIFE" constitutes an assault occasioning actual bodily harm and is classified to this Group.

Assault and battery

SUBDIVISION 13 SEXUAL ASSAULTS AND OFFENCES

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE SUBDIVISION

Attempts, aid and abet, conspiracy to, or accessory before the fact to an offence are classified to the relevant offence group.

This Subdivision relates to all offences of a sexual nature defined by State and Territory law as assaults and all other sexual offences other than those classified to Group 571 - Child Pornography.

Because of the wide variation in State and Territory laws it is necessary for the purpose of obtaining a national statistical classification to adopt at the State level the definition of the International Criminal Police Organisation (INTERPOL) for sexual offences, including rape, "Each country (i.e. State) should judge according to its own law what exactly constitutes a 'sexual offence'".

Three broad groups have been nominated for the purpose of national statistics. These are:

136. Sexual assaults (according to State and Territory law)

137. Sexual offences (consent proscribed), where the consent by one or more of the parties involved is prohibited by State or Territory law, eg by virtue of age, blood relationship, idiosyncrasy or imbecility, etc.

139. Other sexual offences according to State and Territory law.

These groups are ordered hierarchically with sexual assaults (Group 136) taking precedence over sexual offences (consent proscribed) (Group 137) and other sexual offences (Group 139), eg rape of a person under age will be classified to sexual assault (Group 136) and not to sexual offences (consent proscribed) (Group 137).

GROUP 136 SEXUAL ASSAULT (ACCORDING TO STATE AND TERRITORY LAW)

This group includes all offences which are considered by the laws of a State or Territory to be in the nature of a sexual assault in that State or Territory. Because the laws vary markedly between jurisdictions no distinctions are drawn in this group according to sex, age or other characteristic of persons or of the nature of the assault.

Rape
Attempted rape
Assault with intent to rape
Defile by threats, fraud, drugs
Assault with intent to commit an unnatural offence
Indecent assault

Sexual assault on female/male
Sexual assault on male/female child
Sexual assault category 1 - Inflicting grievous bodily harm with intent to have sexual intercourse (N.S.W.)
Sexual assault category 2 - Inflicting actual bodily harm with intent to have sexual intercourse (N.S.W.)
Sexual assault category 3 - Sexual intercourse without consent (N.S.W.)
Sexual assault category 4 - Section 61 (e)(1) (N.S.W.)
Sexual assault, unspecified

GROUP 137 SEXUAL OFFENCES (CONSENT PROSCRIBED)

This group covers offences of a sexual nature as defined by State and Territory law where the consent by one or more of the parties involved is prohibited by law, eg by virtue of age, blood relationship, idiocy or imbecility, etc.

Carnal knowledge contrary to nature
Carnal knowledge by false pretences
Carnal knowledge, under specified age
Carnal knowledge of sister/brother
Carnal knowledge of mother/father
Carnal knowledge of lineal ancestor
Carnal knowledge of daughter/son
Unlawful carnal knowledge
Permit carnal knowledge contrary to nature
Incest
Defilement of idiot
Permit defilement of young girl
Indecent treatment of child under specified age
Defilement by guardian
Sexual assault category 4 - Section 61 (e)(2) if under 16 (N.S.W.)
Sexual assault category 4 - Section 61 (e)(3) otherwise (N.S.W.)

GROUP 139 OTHER SEXUAL OFFENCES

This group covers all other sexual offences defined by State and Territory law.

Sodomy
Buggery

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE DIVISION

For the purposes of offences in this division the term drug is a general term used to describe narcotics, opiates, hallucinogens or any other substance which is prohibited or under legal control excluding alcohol and tobacco.

A general principle applied in this division is that the drug element prevails over other elements for all offences other than "theft of drugs" which is classified to Group 399 - Other theft. For example, fraudulent prescriptions to obtain drugs is classified to this division and not to Group 321 - Fraud, forgery and false pretences.

This division excludes matters relating to drugs for licensed, registered or authorised purposes by a licensed, registered, or authorised person or other person acting as the servant and under orders of a licensed, registered, or authorised person. Offences relating to drugs under these conditions are classified to Group 853 - Dangerous drugs and poisons.

The division is divided into five subdivisions (three subdivisions in the 1980 version "DANCO"):

SUBDIVISION 61 Possession and/or use of drugs

SUBDIVISION 64 Importing and exporting drugs

SUBDIVISION 65 Dealing and trafficking in drugs

SUBDIVISION 66 Manufacturing and growing drugs

SUBDIVISION 69 Other drug offences

Subdivisions 61, 64, 65, and 66 are further divided into groups allowing for classification by the following drug types where information is available in the source documentation:

- . Opium and derivatives (heroin, morphine, etc)
- . Cocaine and derivatives
- . Other narcotics, specified
- . Narcotics, unspecified
- . Cannabis, all types, (Indian hemp, hashish, marijuana, etc.)
- . Other drug types, specified
- . Drug type, unspecified

Because of the necessity for reporting under the United Nations Single Convention of Narcotic Drugs 1961 and the Convention on Psychotropic Substances 1971, for general interstate comparability and major interest, it is necessary to provide for the separate classification of cocaine and cannabis. In some States one or both of these drug types are not regarded as narcotics, but both types are a subject of the Single Convention. Separate classification enables regrouping of statistical data for different reporting purposes.
